

Education to be made better with ICT

Written by Nabbanja winfred

Tuesday, 04 December 2012 12:58 - Last Updated Tuesday, 04 December 2012 14:25

{comments on}

The world keeps developing at a fast pace and so are the improvements in technology. Improvements in technology has advanced many fields such as the health , banking , transport and other sectors. Not so long however the advancement will effect changes in the education sector . With the initiative of ITCT Africa, a programe that is to tain teachers skills in computer technology to impart and train other teachers, teaching will be made simpler and also more enjoyable for the teachers. For the learners, learning will be made easier and more meaningful.

Special thanks go to ITCT FRICA seeing wayforward for africa and realisation of the need for Africa to be in line in terms of development with other developed nations. This is a great opporunity for all africans to move with new developments. Its there fore a duty for all those trained to see to it that the planned objectives are achived in their respective schools.